LONDON, Dec. 14—An exchange of telegrams, it is stated today, has removed the last obstacle to the peace negotiations between Turkey and the Balkan allies. Even the obstacle of Greece has been eliminated by an exchange of code messages between the Turkish envoys here and the port at Constantinople.

It is reported that the sultan has cancelled his order for the envoys from Turkey not to negotiate with the envoys from Greece until Greece signs the armistice, and the Greeks will participate in the conference on the same terms as the other Balkan delegates.

DROVE TWO FORD CARS
THROUGH FROM MICHIGAN.

Driving the entire distance in two Ford cars, B. H. Smith and wife and Mr. and Mrs. John Higgins and family, arrived here yesterday from Caro, Michigan. The party was on the road practically two weeks and the only trouble experienced was one puncture.

The party took a route through Detroit and to Pittsburgh and then south through the Shenandoah valley. They arrived in St. Augustine Thursday evening and made the trip down from St. Augustine to Daytona yesterday. Mr. Smith says they found the roads from St. Augustine to Daytona much better than from Madison to Jacksonville. Mr. and Mrs. Smith are stopping with Mr. and Mrs. F. D. Spring on Ivy Lane.

STEAMER THETIS AGROUND AT HEAD OF HALIFAX

The steamer Thetis, of the Coastal Inland Navigation company line, went aground at the head of the river yesterday, and several boats from this city have endeavored to remove her from her position without avail. Messrs. Hankins and Eccles are particularly interested in the early release of the Thetis as she has on board parts of the new fixtures they are installing in their respective drug stores and the work is held up until these parts are received. These gentlemen and P. C. Rodgers, agent for the steamer line, went up to the Thetis with George Hooper on his boat the Sterling, last evening, returning this morning. It is probable that the cargo of the Thetis will be transferred to some other boat of the line for transportation to this city. The Kennedy, on her arrival from the south, will continue on to Jacksonville with her cargo of oranges.

L. L. Junkins, representing the McLane Manufacturing company of Milford, N. H., was a Daytona and Daytona Beach visitor from Thursday until yesterday, looking up business in the way of postoffice equipment, manufactured by his company. Mr. Junkins is a friend and fellow townsman of W. A. Bennett of Volusia avenue, as well as others in this city and the peninsula towns.

TO LENGTHEN THE CULVERT ACROSS SECOND AVENUE

At a special meeting of the city council held yesterday afternoon a decision was reached that the culvert recently installed in the Fever Hollow ditch across Second avenue shall be left as installed for the present, but in the near future the culvert will be lengthened to practically the width of the street. The work of installing the new culvert, was stopped one week ago at the request of G. H. Hulett, who desired to have the culvert enlarged and wanted to bring the matter before the city council, and at the council meeting Monday evening the question of the size of the culvert was not settled.

PENNIES ARE LIKE PINS.

Millions of Them Are Lost Every Year, Nobody Knows How.

That Americans are careless of their small change is evidenced by the fact that of the 150,000,000 pennies annually sent out from the Philadelphia mint only a small percentage are ever accounted for afterward.

It is thought that but a very small percentage of pennies lost in the streets are ever found, since they lack luster and fail to catch the eye as does a silver coin. The chances are that they are swept up with rubbish and so, for the most part, lost as coins.

When the new Lincoln pennies were first placed in circulation thousands were used as souvenirs, never again to find their way into general circulation. Hundreds were gold plated and silvered to be used as cuff links and stickpins.

County fairs and shows of various kinds mutilate thousands of pennies every year. At the fairs one may see a machine that will flatten a cent and at the same time emboss a souvenir view of the event.

Hundreds of thousands of pennies are carried out of the United States by tourists, who leave them abroad. A year or two ago 100,000 of them were shipped to Cuban bankers and placed in circulation among the laboring classes in Cuba. The American copper runs a close second to the pin, of which millions are lost every year.

SOME CHRISTMAS PIES.
MINCE PIES are considered the proper kind for Christmas, though individual taste has much to do with this choice.
 Owing to their richness the mince pie should have a crust as flaky and palatable as the pastry maker's art can achieve.
 Make the pastry in as cool a place
 as possible. Use flour of good quality, also good sweet butter, lard or dripping.
 Procure water as cold as possible.
 Everything should be chilly except the oven, which must be heated to a high degree.
 Do not use too much flour on the board and rolling pin and avoid heavy and uneven rolling.
Manipulating the Paste.
 Avoid rubbing or rolling the butter
 into the flour heavily and adding too much water.
 Add the water freely to the flour
 when beginning the mixing, but with great caution at the end.
 If the pastry contains baking powder
 put it in the oven as soon as possible
 after mixing it.
 After baking avoid putting the pastry into a cold place. It should gradually cool.
 Always use a clean, smoothly grained pastry board and rolling pin.
 See that the fire is made up in good time, so that the oven is very hot.

Mince Pie.
 Old Fashioned Mince Pie.—Take one pound of suet, one pound of raisins, one pound of tenderloin of beef or pork
 boiled until done, one pound of citron, one pound of apples that have been peeled and cored. Chop these together.
 Add one pound of currants, one pound of sugar, half an ounce of mace and allspice each, a tablespoonful of cloves,
 a teaspoonful of cinnamon, one grated nutmeg and one quart of cider. Bake in puff paste in a deep pan, two inches deep at least. Line the pan with pastry and put on a top crust. Serve hot.
Raisin Pie.
 Take one cupful of raisins chopped quite fine, one cupful of sugar,
 the juice of one good sized lemon and one cupful of boiling water. Place this mixture on the fire; let it come to a boil; then add four heaping tablespoonfuls of flour mixed with a little cold water. After it boils again put in a small piece of butter and a little grated nutmeg. Bake between two crusts.
Mock Mince Pie.—Take one and a half cupfuls of raisins chopped very fine, put through a food chopper if possible; two eggs, one cupful of sweet or sour cream, one teaspoonful of cinnamon, one-half teaspoonful of cloves,
 one teaspoonful of salt, one tablespoonful of vinegar. Bake between two crusts. This tastes like a mince pie and is not so indigestible.

 left Thursday for Havana and intermediate points. They expect to return to Daytona in about a month
 for a more extended stay.

Daniel Lees and wife of Philadel-

Prisoners Keep Their Names.

No more ridiculous statement appeared in the press than that a man in prison is known by his number and not by his name. The numbers are serial; those at Sing Sing are now over 20,000 and those at Auburn over 31,000 and those at Clinton over 10,000.
 Imagine how ridiculous it would be to employ such numbers as names.
 The guards would be candidates for a lunatic house if such a task were thrust upon them. Prisoners keep their names throughout life, and their names are only known by those who have a right to know them. The names are used in addition to the number, as a further means of identification.—Outlook

Why Chinamen Are Poor Soldiers.
The Chinaman is a poor soldier. Not that he is lacking in courage, for on occasions he cheerfully sells himself as substitute and goes willingly to the executioner's ax in order to provide his parents with the small sum necessary to support them through life. The strength of an army is in team work, and here is where he fails on account of his aversion to being ordered. This is found in his domestic and industrial work. A general line of policy or desired results can be laid down, and he will faithfully work in accordance therewith, but he dislikes to be followed up through the details of the work with frequent orders. He will produce excellent results, but they must be accomplished in his own way; hence the essence of good militarism—prompt and unquestioned obedience—comes in direct conflict with his nature and makes him a poor soldier. However, this trait is not entirely wanting in other nationalities, as every business man knows to his sorrow, and the difficulty of getting employees to do a thing in the prescribed way is one of the constant anxieties.—H. H. Windsor in Popular Mechanics Magazine.

A Doubtful Introduction.
In Rubinstein's "Reminiscences" we read how the illustrious pianist went from Berlin to settle in Vienna, fortified by letters of introduction to various celebrities given to him by the Russian ambassador at the Prussian court. He presented several of them without any beneficial result, and it then occurred to him to tear open those which remained and read them. They all ran, he says, as follows:

"Dear Countess—Our position as ambassador and ambassadress imposes upon us the tiresome duty of patronizing and introducing all kinds of compatriots, who are often most importunate in their solicitations. I therefore now venture to introduce to you a certain Rubinstein, the bearer of this communication."

After that experience Rubinstein threw all his letters of introduction into the fire, and he got on a great deal better without them.

An Actor's Qualification.
Among the London Lyceum company of Irving's day was Evergreen Howe, a Quaker, of whom this story is told in the "Life of Martin Harvey": "Howe went to see Kean at Richmond and explained his desires. Kean listened more or less patiently, and Howe used to deliver his verdict, imitating his manner."

"Why, Cuckie, you are a Quaker, eh?" Kean said.
"Yes," admitted Howe.
"And you want to go on the stage, do you, eh?"
"Again Howe admitted the accuracy of the estimate. Kean turned to him in his inimitable way and asked:
"Well, Cully, can you starve?"
"Not an encouraging suggestion," Howe used to add. "But Kean knew something of starvation as a passport to the stage," he used to conclude grimly."

When Harmonies Are Exhausted.
Once during a conversation on music, when James Hinton, the English physician and philosophical writer, was among the company, some one suggested that "owing to the unlimited number of musical compositions a time would come when all music would only be a repetition of exhausted harmonies. Hinton remarked that then would come a man so inspired by a new spirit that his feeling would be not that all music has been written, but that no music has yet been written." Mr. Havelock Ellis cites the saying in "The Task of Social Hygiene," applying it to the domain of love.

Ancient Glass.
In the Slade collection at the British museum in London the most ancient specimen of pure glass the date of which can be approximately fixed is a small lion's head, bearing the name of an Egyptian king of the eleventh dynasty. That is to say, at a period which may be moderately placed at more than 2,000 years B. C. glass was made with a skill which shows that the art was far from new.

Through the Earth.
If there was a tunnel through the center of the earth and an iron ball was dropped into it where would the ball come to rest? Unless it was retarded by the resistance of the air the ball would go through to the other side and then fall back to its starting point, repeating this operation forever. If retarded by the resistance of the air it would ultimately come to rest at the center of the earth.

HINTS FOR THE BUSY HOUSEWIFE

Folding Bookcase or Closet
Made of Packing Boxes.

Two packing boxes hinged as shown and fitted with casters make a very convenient portable closet, says Popular Mechanics. It can be folded flat against a wall or fitted into a corner. If furnished with shelves it can be used as a bookcase or tool closet, and when fully opened it makes a handy workbench.

Two projecting strips are fitted on the inside of one box so as to fit tightly against the inner top and bottom surfaces of the other box to increase the rigidity of the box when closed. The addition of casters makes the opening, closing and pushing about very easy. An ornamental hasp or lock can be fitted if desired.

Rich Mince-meat.

This recipe makes a rich mince-meat and one that will keep all winter: To two cupfuls of chopped meat put six cupfuls of chopped apple measured after chopping, one-fourth pound each of stewed and chopped dried peaches, apricots and prunes, one-fourth pound chopped citron, one-eighth pound of chopped candied lemon peel, one pound raisins, one pound currants, one tumblerful cranberry jelly, one teaspoonful cloves, two teaspoonfuls each of allspice and mace (or nutmeg), four teaspoonfuls cinnamon, one-half teaspoonful ginger, one teaspoonful black pepper, five tablespoonfuls salt, one quince chopped, five cupfuls sweet cider, one cupful vinegar, three cupfuls molasses, four cupfuls brown sugar, the juice and grated rind of one lemon and one orange. Mix in a large pan and let it simmer slowly for a day.

New England Boiled Dinner.

Take two and one-half pounds beef and two pounds lean and fat pork. Put meat on to boil at 3:30 o'clock and prepare the following vegetables: One medium head of cabbage cut in four pieces, eight medium size potatoes pared, four turnips pared, cut in quarters, four parsnips cut lengthwise, four carrots cut the same way. Put in the cabbage at 4:15, turnips at 5:10, carrots at 5:20, potatoes at 5:30, parsnips at 5:40 and keep steadily boiling. Following this schedule all the vegetables will be done at the same time for a 6 o'clock dinner. Garnish the meat and cabbage with parsley and slices of carrots. Add pickled beets and steamed brown bread.

Christmas Surprise Loaves.

Take ordinary light bread dough and carefully mold into tiny loaves and bake in individual tins that each loaf may be entirely surrounded by crust. When the loaves have become cold and firm cut off an end of each and scoop out the soft part, leaving only the crust shells. Fill the vacancies thus made with divinity fudge, etc., then place the ends back on the loaves and secure with ribbons wrapped endwise around them and tied with a big bow on top. These boxes look too cute for anything and keep the candies so moist and fresh that they may be made weeks before the Christmas rush.

Christmas Cherry Salad.

Pit the cherries by cutting a little slit in one side of the fruit. Slip the meat of a filbert into each cherry. Make a dressing as follows: Put one-half cup vinegar on the stove. When it boils remove and stir in two beaten eggs. When cold add one pint whipped cream. One tablespoonful sugar and some salt may be added to the dressing if so desired.

Sugared Popcorn.

One tablespoonful of butter, three tablespoonfuls of water, one large cupful of granulated sugar. Boil five minutes without stirring, then put in three quarts nicely popped corn and stir for a moment. Take the kettle from the fire and stir until each kernel is separate, which it will be in a very few moments.

Chili Sauce.

One quart tomatoes (ripe) peeled, one pepper chopped or one-half salt-spoonful cayenne, one-half teaspoonful of cloves, one-half teaspoonful of allspice, one heaping teaspoonful salt, one-half cupful brown sugar, one cupful vinegar. Cook three hours slowly.

Cranberry Jelly.

One quart of cranberries, one pound of sugar and one-half pint of water. Wash the berries and boil in the water ten minutes, then wash and strain. Return to kettle, add sugar and boil rapidly fifteen minutes until it jellies, and turn out to cool.

Mock Sausages.

Into a cupful of thick white sauce stir the beaten yolk of an egg, one teaspoonful of lemon juice and two cupfuls of chopped cold cooked fish. Shape to simulate sausages, dip each one in egg and breadcrumbs and fry in deep fat.

Not Cautious.

When Brother Amielab Johnsing was pastor of a colored congregation he was so forgetful of the dignity of his cloth as to join in a game of craps one night. The bones ran against him, and he lost all the Sunday school funds. For this he was duly tried, and the verdict of the tribunal was as follows:

"The Reverend Amielab Johnsing is acquitted of the sin of gambling, provided he pays the money back come next Saturday night. In the meantime the members of this congregation is warned again shootin' craps with Brudder Johnsing."—New York Sun.

JUST GOSSIP BY THE GOSSIPER.

The Daytona board of trade is proving a good thing for the city and a protection to the business men in more ways than the business men themselves realize. One of the noticeable things this winter is the absence of solicitors for fake advertising schemes, who, up to last season, have annually flooded the city and worked, or tried to work, every business institution in the city for "easy money." The action taken by the board of trade soon after it was organized two years ago in "tabooing" all forms of advertising schemes not sanctioned by the publicity committee has resulted in closing the doors of the city to this class of fakirs and they are now passing up Daytona as a town filled with "easy marks."

At the board of trade meeting last Wednesday evening George H. Gardiner of the Conrad Grocery company brought up a good subject for discussion and consideration when he suggested the old Spanish sugar mill just west of Port Orange should be preserved as a point of historical interest to the hundreds of tourists who visit this city and vicinity every winter. Mr. Gardiner has recently visited the old ruins and observed that the supports to the machinery are rotting away and that some action must be taken soon to keep the sugar mill in a state of preservation. The ruins are located in one of the prettiest spots in this section of the state and the distance from Daytona makes it just a pleasant automobile drive. The land on which the old mill is located is owned by Charles Dougherty of Port Orange, and the secretary of the board of trade has opened communication with him to see if some steps can be taken to preserve and keep the ruins.

There seems to be a stronger movement in the city this winter than ever before to "clean up," with the idea of preserving the reputation which Daytona claims and holds of being the prettiest winter resort in the world. This concerted movement to make and keep the city clean and attractive is commendable and the movement should be carried to every part of the city.

While the wave of cleanliness is spreading, wouldn't it be a good idea to carry it along to the Jackson property between the central and north bridges, known to the older inhabitants as Orange Island? This tract of 59½ acres, sometimes called Manley Island and MEI Island, is really one of the most valuable real estate holdings within the city limits, but the claim is made that the owner is holding it as an investment and at a high price, and doing nothing toward keeping it in good condition. It is said the price asked is something in the neighborhood of $25,000, although it is claimed to be assessed at $1,960, which, at 40 per cent. of valuation, would give it an assessed valuation of $4,000. If these figures are approximately correct, it would appear the owner of this property could afford to spend a little money in having the tract cleaned up and kept in good condition.

The St. Augustine business men have taken a step which has been contemplated and discussed in Daytona for several years, and have raised a fund for the employment of a Pinkerton plain clothes man to remain in the city through the winter season to help guard the citizens and tourists against confidence men, swindlers and robbers.

St. Augustine has been bothered, the same as every other resort town in the state, every season with crooks of every kind, who flock south in the winter time, following the tourists and watching for every possible chance to grab for "easy money." In the Ancient City patience has ceased to be a virtue and the business men have determined to put a stop to the practice. The Pinkerton man will be one who knows many of the noted crooks by sight and has had experience enough to spot the strange ones as soon as they hit the city, and these men will be promptly ordered to leave the upcoast city. This action in St. Augustine brings home to Daytona the question, "What is to become of these men when they are driven out of St. Augustine?" The natural consequence is that Daytona will be the first place to suffer. Having come south for the winter these men will not go north from the Ancient City, but will turn toward the south, and Daytona is the first stopping place. The next question is, "What is Daytona going to do about it?"

Cabbage Warfare.

The cabbage was adopted by the Egyptians, who raised it to the highest dish in their repasts. The Greeks and Romans ascribed to it the highest quality of preserving from drunkenness and looked upon it as a sovereign remedy against paralysis.

Our Lighthouses.

The lighthouse service of the United States costs about $5,000,000 a year. The greater part of this sum is used in caring for the lighting of the coasts.

Wire.

Wire was first beaten out by a hammer, but the artisans of Nuremberg, in 1359, began to draw it, which was the great step forward in that art.

Unslaked Lime.

Unslaked lime is useful in preventing rust because of its extraordinary capacity for absorbing moisture. Some careful workmen who take pains that their tools shall always be in the best condition make a practice of keeping a piece of lime in their tool boxes to absorb any moisture which might otherwise cause rust.

Tropical Plants.

Many tropical plants possess light giving qualities. Not only are their blossoms and stems luminous, but their juices are phosphorescent.

The brick made in the yards along the Hudson river in New York since 1901, if laid flat, would make a sidewalk twenty feet wide around the world.

A MIDDLE-aged, jolly, dashing soldier of fortune came to America in 1777 and offered his services to the patriot army. He brought along with him no great military skill, but a most amazing capacity for making trouble. The soldier was Thomas Conway, a British subject, who had lived since early childhood in France. There he had joined the army and risen to a colonelcy. When he came here he was joyfully received. The Revolutionists lacked expert officers and they made him a brigadier-general.

The man's boasts and his dashing ways impressed the simpler statesmen. But George Washington read him at a glance, for a windy, vicious incompetent.

So when congress decided a little later to make Conway a major general the chief sternly opposed such a promotion and gave his reasons for doing so. From that moment Conway was Washington's sworn foe. One active mischief-maker can sometimes work more harm than a dozen wise men can undo. Conway at once joined Washington's opponents in congress and the army, and started a campaign for the chief's overthrow.

He and his associates formed what was known as the "Conway Cabal," and did all in their power to undermine Washington's influence. In a series of anonymous letters Conway ridiculed the chief as a coward and as too feeble of mind as a leader. He suggested Gen. Horatio Gates as commander-in-chief in Washington's place. Not only did Conway and his friends win Gates over to this scheme, but they induced several prominent congressmen to lend their influence to the movement.

It was the Revolution's dark hour. New York and Philadelphia were in the hands of the British. Washington and his army were starving and freezing at Valley Forge after a summer and autumn of repeated defeats. Men's hearts grew faint and their allegiance weakened. Conway's crafty words at such a moment fell on ready ears.

The cabal waxed strong. But for a mere accident it might readily have ended by depriving Washington of power and of placing the command of the patriot armies in the hands of Gen. Gates. And with fussy, inefficient, cowardly old Gates at the head of the American troops American liberty would have been doomed. Here, in brief, is the story of the accident that saved our country:

Gates' aid, Wilkinson, drank too much one night and bubbled to a friend of the chief some of the contents of a letter from Conway to Gates in which Conway had spoken insultingly of Washington. The story was told to Washington, who called Conway to account. Conway rushed to Gates for aid, and Gates tried to get out of the difficulty by branding Wilkinson as a liar.

Wilkinson promptly challenged Gates to a duel. Gates went on Wilkinson's shoulder and implored him to withdraw the challenge, speaking of himself as a feeble old man who loved Wilkinson like a father. In this way the frightened old general wriggled out of fighting.

Meantime, thanks to the first hint, Washington learned of all Conway's anonymous letters and other treacheries. The facts were made known to the people. The cabal was crushed under a storm of public disapproval.

But Conway was not to escape so easily. He was challenged to a duel by Washington's friend, Gen. Cadwalader, who proceeded to shoot him through the mouth.

Conway, believing himself dying, wrote one more letter. This time to Washington, asking forgiveness for his villainies and declaring the chief to be a "great and good man." Then he "conditionally" resigned his commission as an officer in the American service. Congress accepted the resignation, unconditionally, and Conway went back to France.

There he styled himself "Count de Conway," and managed to win an appointment as governor of one of France's Oriental provinces. He made such a mess of his diplomatic work in his province of the Orient that he almost wrecked the French interests there. He returned to France and became a general in the royal armies.

During the French Revolution he was condemned to death. He was saved only by an appeal to Great Britain (against which he had fought in the American Revolution), but was compelled to flee from France for his life.

After that Conway disappeared from history. He is supposed to have died about 1800 in poverty and exile.

PROCRASTINATORS

It All Came Out
Right

By CLARISSA MACKIE

"There goes Eunice Rockwell," remarked Mrs. Porter from her chair behind the honeysuckle vine. "I wonder when she and Noah are going to get married?"

"The land knows!" ejaculated her sister Fanny, craning her neck to watch the girl slowly passing the house. "They've been engaged five years now, and she's had a kitchen shower given her and a linen shower. Seem's as if the tinware would get rusty if they wait much longer."

"What ails Noah anyway?" inquired Mrs. Porter, rocking comfortably to and fro. "He's doing well and making money in the store. Can't be she's putting him off on account of her Aunt Susan."

"I should say not, when she knows Susan is just dying to break up and go to live with Anna and her husband. You know Susan told us the other day that she had a mind to break up anyway and go to Anna's. She's tired of waiting for Eunice to get married."

MILLIE'S SLIM WAIST WAS ENCIRCLED BY NOAH'S ARM.

"It would be just like Susan Rockwell to do it, too," said Mrs. Porter.

"I wonder what would become of Eunice then?"

"Susan said her niece could be married from Anna's house just as well as here."

"I don't believe Eunice would go to Anna's."

"Perhaps she'd have to; but, just the same, if Noah Rand was my son I'd just give him a piece of my mind. The idea of keeping a girl waiting five years!" Mrs. Porter watched Eunice Rockwell's slender, erect form until it disappeared through the doorway of Noah Rand's grocery store. "She's gone to Noah's. I wonder what for?" added Mrs. Porter.

Noah Rand asked himself the same question when he saw Eunice enter the store. This was the first time she had ever visited the store since their engagement five years ago, and he thought at once that something must have happened to Aunt Susan Rockwell, with whom Eunice made her home.

"Howdy do, Eunice?" asked Noah, blushing up to the roots of his light hair. "Anything the matter with Aunt Susan?"

"She's quite well," said Eunice, with a queer strained note in her voice. "I just stopped in to say that she's going to the city to live with Anna." She did not look at Noah. Her brown eyes were studying the packages of cereals piled on the shelves.

"Good Lord!" Noah was startled.

"When is she going?" he asked blankly.

"Tomorrow morning. I'm on my way to tell Horner to have the stage stop for the 9:24." Eunice still stared at the cereals. Surely, she thought, surely Noah would ask her why Aunt Susan was going, or else he would say something about their being married at once. Eunice had stepped forth from her deep reserve and given him an opening. Would he take the opportunity?

"She hasn't, she isn't breaking up," asked Noah feebly. He knew there was something that he ought to say that should have been said years ago, but, as he had done before, he put it off until his next visit. Time enough then. He simply couldn't ask Eunice to name their marriage day when his errand boy was sitting in the rear room with one eye on the store.

"She's not breaking up just now," said Eunice coolly. "I shall attend to that after she has gone. I must be going now. There's plenty to do."

"I'll see you tomorrow night, Eunice," said Noah in a relieved tone, although his manner was apologetic.

"Goodbye," was Eunice's quiet reply.

"Goodbye," said Noah.

Her errand at Horner's accomplished, Eunice Rockwell hurried home, with all her gentle nature stirred to its depths. She was frightened at the white hot anger that filled her heart. She felt that she hated Noah Rand for placing her in such a position. All Little River was looking on and commenting on their needlessly long engagement. Besides, garrulous Aunt Susan only added fuel to the flaming tongues of gossip by her open dissatisfaction at the delayed marriage.

It was not until after Aunt Susan had rocked away in the rumshackle stage with her big trunk, balancing her stout form on the other side of the vehicle, that Eunice sat down in the disordered sitting room and asked herself what was to be done about Noah Rand.

A brief summary of her wooing and engagement brought her to the conclusion that neither she nor her lover really cared for each other or there would have been an eagerness on one side or the other to make a home just for themselves. As for herself, Noah Rand had been her first admirer, and she deluded herself with the belief that she loved him. There's one of those long periods of "keeping company," as it is known in Little River, followed at last by an engagement, which was proclaimed by a small moonstone ring on Eunice's slim brown finger. Every Wednesday evening Noah called to see Eunice, and every Sunday afternoon he took her for a drive in his buggy, and afterward he remained to tea and spent the evening.

If Noah's actions were any indication of his feeling for Eunice the girl now concluded that he had come to care as little for her as she did for him. She arose after awhile and went about her duties with bitter resentment in her heart. All day long she brooded over the trouble, and as the hour grew near for Noah's appearance her thoughts bore fruit. In that she put on a white dress and ran across the road to see Millie Wasson.

"Let him knock and knock again," smiled Eunice triumphantly as she stole through the orchard toward the Wasson house. The apple trees were bending under their rosy burden of blossoms, and she paused to let a fragrant branch brush her cheek. Then her heart stood still at the dark shadow which almost touched her in its swift pace.

"Oh!" she cried sharply, and the shadow paused and put out a warm hand that closed around her arm. She stood motionless.

"Who is it?" asked the voice of Bob Wasson, Millie's brother. "You needn't answer. I know. I couldn't help but know. Eunice," he said in a queer voice, and his hand did not relax its hold. To Eunice's terror he drew her closer until his arms enfolded her gently.

"Oh, Bob—Bob Wasson, let me go! You have no right," half sobbed Eunice, with a sudden realization that to be in Bob's arms was the most blissful sensation in the world.

"If you were free, Eunice, would you, could you—oh, of course, I know I'm acting like a mean cur, but I've loved you and wanted you ever since I came home and first saw you grown up. But Noah has always had a first mortgage, only he's been so tarnation long about foreclosing that I've been failing deeper and deeper all the time."

"Oh, Bob!" sobbed Eunice in accents which she intended to be reproachful, but only succeeded in making tender.

"Eunice," he cried sharply, "this is no time for quibbling. Before you run the risk of making both yourself and Noah unhappy for life tell me, do you love anybody else—me?" He pressed her cheek to his and was thrilled because she did not resist.

"I thought I had heart disease," quavered Eunice. "I used to feel so funny around my heart. You remember that night when you sang at the concert? You sang 'Because I Love You,' and—and—"

"I was singing to you, dear," whispered Bob tenderly.

The scented apple boughs brushed their young heads and scattered a drift of petals down upon them. A whippoorwill was throbbing his strange song from the old fencepost.

Footsteps swished through the long grass and stopped close beside them, and they lifted startled, guilty faces to see, standing near by and quite unaware of their presence, Millie Wasson and Noah Rand.

Strange to relate, Millie's slim waist was encircled by Noah's arm, and his fair head was bent above her dark one in an unmistakable attitude of tenderness. He had never spoken thus boldly to Eunice Rockwell.

"It's no use, Millie, dear," he was saying. "I asked Eunice to marry me, and I'm not going to throw her over, but I don't see that she cares especially for me, and, although she is the sweetest girl, I can't help loving you best," he groaned dismally.

"Throw her over!" ejaculated the energetic Millie. "If you ever mention such a thing, Noah Rand, I'll never speak to you again. But I don't know. This is very dishonorable, you see. Noah. You go right home and never tempt me again. You belong to Eunice Rockwell, whether she cares for you or not, and I feel the meanest girl in the world."

"Looks a lot as if Eunice cared for Noah, don't it, Puss?" Bob's quiet voice broke like a bombshell behind the two, and they turned to see Eunice in his arms.

"What?" gasped Noah.

"Oh, how funny!" laughed Millie happily. "Don't you see, Noah, you blind old bat? No wonder neither of you wanted to get married. You're both in love with other people."

"I guess it's all coming out right in the end," grinned Bob Wasson.

"Just like them old fairy stories we used to hear tell about," added Noah as he wandered away hand in hand with Millie.

RAISE STANDARD OF THE SCHOOLS

Illinois Authorities Start Campaign to Help Children.

WILL LABEL THE BUILDINGS.

Splendid Record Is Required of Teachers, Accessories, Houses and Grounds to Receive Approval of State Education Board.

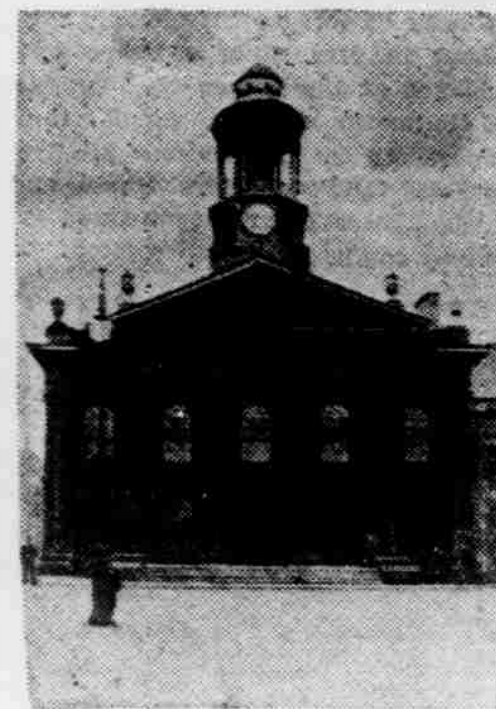

Labeling country schoolhouses so that every citizen may know whether his school is up to standard is a new device of the Illinois state school authorities, according to information received by the United States bureau of education.

The schools are inspected as to grounds, building, furnishings, heating, ventilation, library, water supply, sanitation and qualifications of the teacher. If the essentials of a good school are found to exist a diploma is granted the district and a plate is placed above the door of the schoolhouse designating it as a "standard school." Upon fulfillment of certain further requirements a higher diploma will be issued and the plate will read "superior school."

Already 657 of the 10,532 one room schoolhouses in Illinois have earned the right to be called standard schools and to display the plate accordingly.

This interesting device is part of a vigorous campaign waged by the state of Illinois in behalf of rural schools. Two experts on rural education, U. J. Hoffman and W. S. Booth, under the direction of F. G. Blair, state superintendent of public instruction, are devoting their entire time to the country and village schools.

Illinois does not merely ask that the schools be brought up to standard. The state tells how it can be done. In a bulletin sent to every teacher in the state the requirements for a standard school are set forth. Among the specifications are: An ample playground; good approaches to the school; convenient fuel houses; the building sound, in good repair and painted; improved heating arrangements—a jacketed stove

A MODEL SCHOOL IN ENGLAND.

In the corner of the room instead of an unprotected stove in the center; floor and interior of the building clean and tidy; suitable desks for children of all ages properly placed; a good collection of juvenile books, maps and dictionaries; a sanitary water supply; the school well organized, with regular attendance and at least seven months' schooling every year; the teacher to have not less than a high school education, receive a salary of at least $300 per annum and be ranked by the county superintendent as a good or superior teacher.

The more ambitious districts, aspiring to the "superior" diplomas, will have to meet the following additional requirements: A playground of at least one-half an acre, level, covered with good grass and provided with trees and shrubs; sanitary drinking appliance; separate cloakrooms for boys and girls; room lighted from one side or from one end and rear; adjustable windows fitted with good shades; heat provided by basement or room furnace, with proper arrangements for removal of bad air and admission of pure air; at least eighty library books, ten suitable for each grade; two good pictures on the wall; provision for instruction in agriculture, manual training and domestic arts; the teacher to be a high school graduate, with normal school training, and to receive at least $480 per annum; the work outlined in the state course of study to be well done.

The Illinois authorities do not expect to see this movement for betterment of the one room schools interfere in any way with the natural development of consolidated schools; but, believing as they do that because of the scattered farming population of Illinois one room schools will be necessary for many years, they seek to make this type so efficient for the community that a desire will be created among the citizens in rural communities for greater educational advantages for their children.

To Encourage Tree Planting. Trees are so thoroughly appreciated in Denver that the city annually supplies citizens with young stock to encourage planting.

INTERESTING RIDES AND DRIVES POINTS WORTH VISITING

OCEAN BEACH—excellent motor road north for 10 miles and south 10 miles to Mosquito Inlet and Government Lighthouse at Ponce Park. The beach is the most magnificent in the world.

BEED, KNOX & BEED ORANGE GROVE—18 miles, via Ormond, one of the largest groves in Volusia county and is well worth seeing; can be reached by motor over fairly good road; can also be reached by boat.

NUMBER NINE ORANGE GROVE—a large grove, passed on the way to the Beed, Knox & Beed grove, is 12 miles from Daytona.

NEW SMYRNA—16 miles from Daytona, over an excellent hard surface road; this drive is said to be the prettiest in the state. At New Smyrna are the ruins of an ancient fort and other historical spots, left by the colony of Andrew Turnbull.

OLD SPANISH MISSION—2 miles west of New Smyrna, reached by motor over good road. This mission is without authentic history but by many it is contended that this is the church built by Columbus on his second voyage to America. The altar is still extant, but at a later date the building was used as a sugar mill.

SPANISH SUGAR MILL—2 miles west of Port Orange and about 3 miles from Daytona; the machinery is still in a good state of preservation, although the mill is presumed to have been built and operated by the early Spanish settlers.

GOVERNMENT LIGHTHOUSE—at Ponce Park, 12 miles from Daytona, is reached by boat or by motor on the ocean beach.

MAMMOTH TREE—4 miles from Daytona; an abnormally large tree, reached by motor over hard surfaced road.

DELAND—25 miles from Daytona; the county seat of Volusia county and seat of John B. Stetson university; a very picturesque city; reached by motor over hard surfaced road.

TOMOKA RIVER—The scenic stream of Florida; reached by excursion boats which leave Daytona daily and run to the navigable head of the stream, 26 miles from the city. Generally a number of alligators may be seen in their native haunts. This is a trip no tourist should miss.

DELEON SPRINGS, 28 miles from Daytona; mammoth spring that throws out thousands of gallons of water a minute; a delightful bathing pool, and picturesque scenery. Spring is situated in an old plantation. Reached by motor over good road; a nice trip for a picnic party.

OAK HILL—hamlet, 10 miles south of New Smyrna; several orange groves in the locality; reached by motor over hard-surfaced road.

ORMOND—six miles from Daytona; here is located the Ormond hotel and a pretty town; nearby are the ruins of Spanish sugar mills.

TURTLE MOUND—26 miles south of Daytona; reached by boat; a mammoth mound of oyster shells supposed to have been left by a prehistoric race of people. Pottery and other antiquities have been discovered in excavating the shell.

PORT ORANGE—an attractive town 6 miles south of Daytona, can be reached by motor over hard-surfaced road; on the trip one way may be made by the road and crossing the Halifax river on the Port Orange bridge, the return can be made on the ocean beach.

CLARENDON GOLF LINKS—2 miles from Daytona, and immediately north of the Hotel Clarendon at Seabreeze; the links are now in good condition. The Hotel Clarendon bears the distinction of being the only fireproof winter tourist hotel in the world.

GENERALLY, you may motor in any direction from Daytona and find places and objects of interest which your driver can explain to you; there are many by-roads through the sylvan vegetation that a visitor will greatly enjoy.

WALKING.

I have just read two human documents of value.One is by Frederic Harrison, the author, aged eighty-one, and the other by Lord Strathmore, ninety-two years of age.These young old men, both active and hearty, give some golden rules concerning health, and both lay especial emphasis on the benefits of walking as an exercise.Harrison says every one should walk
at the least two hours each day.

Why walk?

Well, in the first place, walking raises the temperature of the body. It is like putting fuel in the furnace and opening the draft. There's something doing inside. Waste is being carried off.

You breathe deeply.

And that is important. Most persons use only half their lungs, ordinarily,
for breathing purposes. Deep breathing puts large quantities of oxygen into the blood. Muscle and nerve get their vitality from the blood. Besides, in deep breathing waste is carried off by exhalation.

And there's the skin.

Millions of pores are opened up by the perspiration, and waste materia
is eliminated.

And digestion:

Walking helps that important function. The exercise puts an edge on appetite. And good digestion waits on appetite.

Moreover—

Here is an important item seldom considered, but of great importance.The doctors will tell you about the diaphragm. The diaphragm is a sort of movable stage floor between the chest and the abdomen. It is raised or lowered by the contraction and swelling of the lungs.

Now:

When the lungs are deeply filled by walking the diaphragm goes down and presses upon the liver and stomach and spleen. It is like a massage of these organs and keeps them in good order.The best way to stir up your liver is to stir your legs.

And, moreover—

Nothing is here said of the mental benefits of walking, the exhilaration of the open air, the joy of well lubricated
movement.

Habituate your legs.

WIRELESS TELEPHONE NOW.

An Italian Scientist Says He Has Solved the Great Problem.Dr. Riccardo Moretti of Rome claims to have solved the problem of wireless telephony owing to a special generator
of electric oscillations of his invention,
which has been successfully experimented with between Rome and Tripoli.This apparatus consists of two poles fixed vertically a small distance
apart and through one of which a thin continuous jet of water flows.The water is evaporated by an electric spark between the ends of the poles, and an alternating current of extraordinary rapidity is consequently generated since the oscillations thus produced are calculated at several hundred thousands every second. As the oscillations exceed in number and rapidity the vocal vibrations by means of this generator it is possible to transmit the voice over long distances.Dr. Moretti has experimented with his invention in connection with the naval wireless installations with the addition of ordinary telephone receivers
and transmitters, but he is now working on a hydraulic transmitter, particulars of which are still undivulged, as it has not yet been patented abroad. Dr.
Moretti is the nephew of Professor Marchisani, the pope's physician.He admits that he owes his invention to Marconi and insists that it is nothing else but an application of wireless telegraphy to the telephone.Dr. Moretti has granted the prior rights of his invention to the government, and, in fact, a wireless telephone station is already being installed between Tripoli and Rome. Meanwhile an Italian syndicate has been formed for the exploitation of the Moretti generator of electric oscillations.—Rome

feated Uncle Joe Cannon.When last fall the Democrats of the Eighteenth Illinois district began casting about for a candidate to pit against Joseph G. Cannon they found little enthusiasm among would be legislators to cross swords with that redoubtable campaigner. Remembering Uncle Joe's record of nineteen terms at Washington, broken only in 1890, when he was defeated for the Fifty-second congress, aspirants grew faint hearted. Finally Frank T. O'Hair of Paris, Edgar county, was induced to enter the race. At first he was reluctant; but, once in the fight, he began a campaign that resulted in the downfall of Mr. Cannon. He proclaimed himself a progressive Democrat and started in with no strings tied to him. What he did to Uncle Joe is now a matter of history. Forgetting the prestige of his illustrious opponent, he went forth among the farmers of the district and told them why Uncle Joe should be retired and a new man sent to represent the district in congress. And he won.Frank T. O'Hair is a native of Edgar county, where he was born forty-two years ago in a log cabin. He is of Irish parentage, and his boyhood days were spent on a farm in a remote country district. After a course in the public schools he entered Purdue university, where he took the law course, and on admittance to the bar began practice in Paris. Force of character and ability have won him a place among the best lawyers of eastern Illinois and western Indiana.Once before he ran for office, and on that occasion he was defeated. In 1892
he was a candidate for mayor of Paris
against his prospective father-in-law, D. D. Huston, father of the girl he hoped to wed, was his Republican opponent, and the battle was bitterly waged. Young O'Hair was forbidden by Papa Huston to enter his home, but when the tide of victory turned the old man's way he was magnanimous, and eventually Miss Huston became Mrs.
O'Hair.

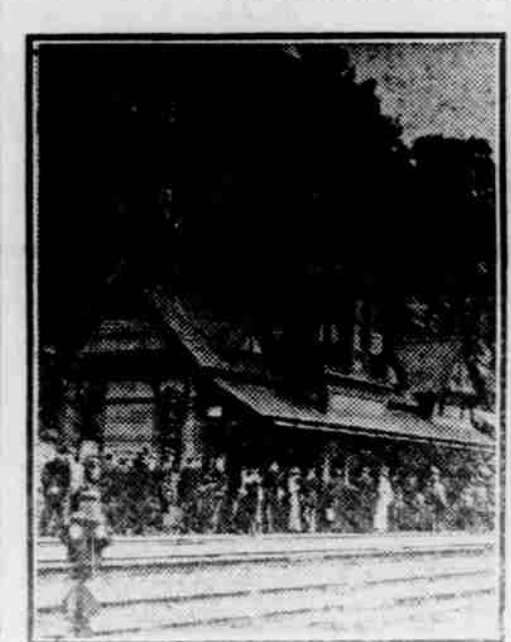

Colorado's New Executive.

Like John M. Shafroth, whom he will succeed next January, Elias M. Ammons, governor elect of Colorado, is a Democrat. From 1892 up to and including the last election the state has been Democratic in national elections except in 1904, when the Republican party was victorious. Mr. Ammons has always been active in politics and is considered one of the best stump speakers in the state.The governor elect is a wealthy stock grower and ranchman and is fifty-four years old. He has a big ranch in Lar-imer county and is identified with other business interests. He has represented his district in both branches of the state legislature for the past ten years, the last two terms as state senator. The legislature of Colorado meets biennially.

The evolution of the railway station
from unsightliness to a thing of beauty is almost the work of the present generation. In the early days this indispensable adjunct was constructed simply for use, with never a thought of making it attractive. The railway station was simply a place to get on and off the trains scheduled to stop at that point. For years the depot of one of the greatest lines in this country, at a state capital, was always referred to as "the cow shed." It was a rickety building, which had been added to by piecemeal as necessity arose, unpainted, with rough floor, leaky roof and without a claim to comeliness.The spirit of improvement, however,
was broadening and spreading over the land. Here and there the agent at a way station, or more probably his wife,

that every city, town and village should do all that is possible to insure convenience, orderliness and a certain type of beauty in and about its railway approaches." Much can be accomplished at small expense and with minimum labor when there is intelligent co-operation, says the American City.The evolution of the railway station

WEST POINT, N. Y.or weary traveler, coming from the blistering heat of the city, to catch a refreshing breath of coolness under the overhanging eaves, and feel that this is home in the truest sense of the word.That such results are within the reach of every community has been strikingly shown at Upper Montclair, N. J. In the expression of the civic spirit of this town, one of the most effective agencies is the Mountain society. Dependent wholly upon the voluntary support of the citizens themselves, which support has always been generously given, it has toiled with energy, judgment and unselfish purpose.The Mountain society was quick to see that the only means of reaching the highest attainment in beautifying the approach to the town was by cordial co-operation with the railway company,
upon which the growth of the community largely depends. The corporation promptly met the society halfway, and together the two strove, with the result that this part of the town is today a pleasure to the eye.A charming booklet, written by a citizen of Montclair, not an officer of the Mountain society, gives expression to this spirit and contains a number of views of the railway station and its surroundings.Just over the bank of the brook on the east side a screen of vines hides an unsightly spot otherwise uncontrollable. The vines, from the green of early spring to the scarlet of autumn,
form an effective shield, and the poplar trees recently planted will supplement and augment it. On the sterile north of the grounds a tunnel of green is formed by the drooping limbs that reach to the waters of the brook flowing here from under the bridge across the avenue, winding between its grown banks through the upper end of the grounds, thence under the railroad embankment and reappearing in the easterly side.The grounds back of the station have for many years been cared for by the Mountain society, the railroad lending aid in grading and furnishing soil and labor. At one time, years ago, this parklike space almost came into the possession of the society for public park use.

Our Difficult Language.

A manikin's a little man—
That simple fact no one would stump—
But a napkin's not a little nap.
And a pumpkin's not a pump.

A starling is a little star—
That's very plain to any chump—
But a strippling's not a little strip.
And a dumpling's not a little dump.

A kidlet is a little kid—
That's seen by even the dullest nut—
But a hamlet's not a little ham.
And a cutlet's not a little cut.

A princess is a lady prince.
But it is not held by any bloat
That a mattress is a female mat
Or a buttress is a nannygoat.

Oh, English, you are strangely made!
You're not a tongue for zumps or fools!
I'll never master you, I'm afraid.
You're more exceptions than you've rules.

—Boston Herald.

The Vicious Circle.
Apropos of the rise in meat prices,
Representative Redfield said the other day in Brooklyn:

"The way everything keeps going up it will soon become discouraging. I can imagine an idle savage from the tropics saying scornfully to some industrious
clerk or mill operative:

"Why do you work?"
"To live."
"And why do you live?"
"Why do I live?"
"Yes, that is what I said. Why do you live?"

"Er—to work."—St. Louis Globe-
Democrat.

Misplaced Ingenuity.
I'm told there is a new device
To keep the hat upon the hair.
You turn a handle—very nice—
It sets to work a comb that's there.
Whose teeth are bedded in a trice
Fast in the tresses of the fair.

"No lady now should be without—
Or so the puffing ads agree—
"If in a gale you venture out Your hat's as safe as safe can be."
A very clever dodge, no doubt.
But precious little use to me.

"To keep the hat upon the hair,"
Umph! Fix it in that mobile bed.
It means if either of the pair
Blows off the other, too, is shed.
Would only some sure dodge there were
To keep the hair upon the head!

—Truth.

His Motto.
Platitudinous Person—I suppose, my dear Mr. Gotrox, that you have used "Make hay while the sun shines" as your life's motto?

Mr. Gotrox—Certainly, sir; certainly!
But that's only half of it. You should add that I made the hay from the grass other people let grow under their feet.

CHANNEL SHOULD BE KEPT CLEAR

MUST TAKE AWAY SEWAGE
SAYS DAYTONA BEACH

SUGGESTS WING DAM OF PAL
METTO LOGS TO KEEP FLOW INTO AND THROUGH THE EAST SHORE CHANNEL.

Editor Gazette-News:—I feel to repeat what I said in your paper years ago. The city has opened many severs into the Halifax river and has made no provision for disposal of same. Instead, the natural channel of clearance is blocked and several pockets made, holding the sewage.

My suggestion was, and is, after almost a score of years of observation, that a channel be kept open down the east shore past the city.
When the seawall was built a canal was made most of the way. This channel has been closed up at several points which ought not to be.
My plan is to have the dams taken out that now close it and increase the natural flow by a wing dam of palmetto logs running from near the west end of the middle bridge, diagonally, northeasterly to the main channel of the river. This is not an expensive project. It needs attention now before the new bridge makes another dam and another pocket. In which to hold the sewage.

The effect of running water in purifying from sewage is wonderful.
The drainage canal at Chicago takes care of an immense flow of sewage
from their two millions of people.
The Mississippi river cares for the sewage of a half million in St.
Paul and Minneapolis, so the water
is potable only a few miles below.

I know the current is not very strong but its outflow twice a day
will do good work at little cost.
Even now there is quite a flow under the west end of the south bridge.
Clear the canal, put in a wing dam and the outgoing tides will care for the sewage of Daytona for years, until some more expensive plan is adopted.

Wm. B. REED.
